AHPRA legal team recognised in national awards

The legal team in AHPRA's Victorian office has been named small legal team of the year in the 2012 Australian Corporate Lawyers Association (ACLA) in-house awards.

The award recognises Australia's best small legal team working in-house in a private, government or not-for-profit organisation.

AHPRA CEO, Martin Fletcher, said it was wonderful that the team's achievement had been recognised by industry peers through the professional association.

"As regulators, AHPRA and the National Boards must act lawfully. We rely on accurate, practical and timely legal advice to help us in our core roles of protecting the public and facilitating access to health services," Mr Fletcher said.

"Congratulations to the Victorian legal team, led by Carol Geyer, for helping us ensure a strong regulatory system is delivered for all Victorians," he said.
