Subject: Consultation - registration standards

Hi there,
I have been in nursing for about 4 years and still have not got my registration because of English requirements which is unfair to the international students. I have appeared for OET and IELTSs many times however, I could not achieve required score in one component every time. Therefore, for one component you have to sit for the whole test again and spend lots of money. In addition, I have completed 4 and half years study in Australia. On that basis, I did apply for registration nevertheless; they did not accept my application. There are numerous students who would be the same as me but because of this single criterion, we can not pursue our further dreams in Nursing. If you are so keen about English requirement, you should not have enrolled all those students who do not achieve satisfactory results in OET or IELTSs. It is completely ridiculous that after putting all those hard work in 3 years, do not reward you. Please think several times before you do make such policies.
