Your responses to the consultation questions

1. Does any content need to be added to or amended in the draft proposed principles?

No

2. Are there any implementation issues the Accreditation Committee should be aware of?

While there are established mechanisms for compensating consumers who [participate in ANMAC's usual governance and activities, there may be additional cost implications related to the training, resources and appropriate payment for the contribution that consumers in other areas of work..

3. Are there any potential, unintended consequences of the draft principles?

No

4. Do you have any general comments or feedback about the draft proposed principles?

The proposed principles align with and in some places support ANMAC's future plans for consumer involvement.

Directly Involved Consumers are already embedded in our accreditation processes, and their contribution over time have helped to enrich accreditation activities, including review and development of standards, and assessment, and/or monitoring of accredited programs.

Indirectly involved consumers are also involved in many aspects of ANMAC's work, and we are seeking to further enhance this over the coming months to better hear the voices of important stakeholders.

ANMAC welcomes the draft principles as consumers represent the lived experience and outcomes of the provision of health and care.
